NO BOOK ENDS REQUIRED

KINDLE 2 | $359

There's nothing quite so relaxing or satisfying as getting lost in a good book. What isn't so relaxing is the thought of lugging your entire library on board every time you leave the dock. Kindle 2 has finally arrived, to the delight of bookworms everywhere. The new model offers more than 230,000 books available under 60 seconds, faster page turns, more storage and longer battery life. Plenty of time to catch up on all the classics you didn't read in high school.

WIDE VISION

RAYMARINE C90W | $2,695

The 9-inch C90W by Raymarine displays coastal charts in a high-resolution format. The new design allows for a wider view of a single chart, or the ability to view two charts side-by-side. And attached to the appropriate sensors, the C90W can transform from a navigation display to a full-function chart plotter, fishfinder and weather video system.

VESSEL SYSTEMS MONITOR 422 | $599.50

Talk about flexibility, the new VSM 422 from Blue Sea Systems tracks 22 functions, including DC and AC systems, tank levels and bilge on one little display. The four-in-one monitor may come across slightly old-school in appearance but offers unique subtleties like bilge pump alarms for cycles, volumes and duration of run time. Boat owners will also have the choice among three different display modes (large font, icon or multi-line text) and three mounting options for additional customization.

TUNE IN

VUQUBE VQ 4000 | $2,299

We've yet to come across a marine satellite TV antenna that is so versatile and so darn cute at the same time. The VuQube VQ 4000 makes good on its promise to provide reliable reception and boasts an ultra-portable design, making it possible to take your favorite programs with you whether you're on deck, fishing offshore or in your own backyard. Connect the antenna to the controller using a single coaxial cable, switch it on and the VuQube automatically locks on, tracking satellites for your uninterrupted viewing pleasure.
